FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
TME announces Rcpodcast.com

Riverview, Florida. – February 26, 2010 -

Tejera Microsystems Engineering, Inc. (TME), a leading innovator and manufacturer of RC accessories, announced the sponsorship of a new online audio podcast program at www.RCpodcast.com

The podcast site features three different shows that cater to RC enthusiasts. One of the three shows is called the “RC Aerobatics Podcast” show. It features interviews with top competitive rc pilots from all over the world like Dave Patrick, Mike McConville, George Hicks and more.. The show discusses 3D, pattern and IMAC radio controlled aerobatics tips in an informal style to make the listener a better pilot. Another show called “RC Quick Tips” podcast features a special tip related to anything RC. This can include previously unheard excerpts from our other shows. The third show is called the “RC Electronics Tips” podcast. This show is designed to help you understand the electronics knowledge you need to advance in RC. The show discusses a variety of topics like: glow starters, servos, ignition systems, power distribution systems, electric power systems, and more.

Listeners can subscribe to get new shows automatically with iTunes and many other podcacher or feed readers. The shows are free to listen and download and listeners can subscribe to all the shows via a single feed or subscribe only to the shows they like.

TME welcomes all to visit the web site at www.RCpodcast.com
